

Danielle Paige Garrard

Danielle at 2 days old

Danielle was born at 28 weeks, 1 day after my membranes ruptured and 2 weeks after I was admitted into the hospital for incompetent cervix and preterm labor. She was 2 lbs 9 oz and 15 inches at birth. She had a very bad Chorioamnionitis infection in her already fragile lungs after birth as well as many other typical preemie complications.

*Danielle 8 months old, with NJ feeding tube
(weaned off tube feeds at 12 months)*

She came home after 63 days in the NICU and had a few other hospitalizations due to GI and pulmonary related problems.

Danielle at 4!

She is now 4 years old and doing pretty well. She has some global delays and vision problems from ROP (she will be getting glasses soon), and sensory issues. She goes to a special needs preschool 4 days a week. She is a petite affectionate curious little girl that keeps us on our toes!
